No balloon races that has ever been held in America has given promise of the success which has been predicted for the national event tomorrow. It eclipses the big international event held at St. Louis two years ago, particularly in the size and power of the craft which will compete. All of the balloons in tomorrow's race will each hold 80,000 cubic feet of gas, which is the maximum size.

Present indications are that six or eight balloons will start in the race.

GEORGE J. KELLOGG TALKS TO GROWERS

Veteran Agriculturist Makes Valuable Suggestions Regarding Small Farms.

Now is the time to look after the weeds in garden and field. Everything is growing. Weeds are a blessing. I will except Canada thistles, quack grass and the little chick weed. If it were not for the weeds we would neglect cultivation. All growing crops want the ground stirred every week. It would be a blessing if all grain crops could be cultivated for two months. Cabbage wants hoeing every morning before breakfast, and after every rain, and strawberry plants not this year need the same treatment. Don't hoe the old strawberry beds—just take out the big weeds with a knife or a spade without disturbing the roots and the plants. Let the old stay as long as they pay and one year more, but set a new bed every spring.

Spraying is the order of this week and for two weeks; the first spray, after bloom, should be finished up this week, and second spray two weeks later. If showers follow keep at it. Currants and gooseberries are being eaten now; go for the worms with paris green or white hellebore. The aphid of green house is already on your rose bushes; use insect powder or tobacco water. Leaf hoppers are good for plants as well as chickens; kerosene emulsion or Dead shot are also good. Even fresh wood ashes will help all these and the cabbage worm.

So sing that old favorite hymn: "Oh watch and fight and spray." These things we have got to get up and dust.

Truly,
GEO. J. KELLOGG,
Lake Mills, Wis.

WILL ENDEAVOR TO SECURE LOW RATES

Wisconsin Department Commander, G. A. R., Urges Visitors to Procure Certificates.

According to a statement issued by the department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, R. B. Lang, of the Department of Wisconsin, if there are 1,000 people in attendance at the annual meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic, Women's Relief Corps, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Sons of Veterans and other visiting soldiers and their families, with all others who go to Eau Claire on that occasion, all the railroads of the state will grant a special rate of a fare and a half. If the number in attendance, with certificates which will entitle them to the lower rate, is less than a thousand, the lower rate will not be granted, and it can easily be seen that it will be to the advantage of all the four orders to bring the attendance up to at least one thousand.

All members of the G. A. R. and of the other three orders named above who desire the lower rate will, when they purchase tickets for Eau Claire when the price is over fifty cents, ask for a certificate which will entitle them to a reduced rate on the return trip. In order to secure this half-fare rate it will be necessary for everyone to ask for and secure such a certificate, for although a thousand might buy tickets, if the certificate are not produced the rate will not be granted.

CAR STRIKE TO END SHORTLY

PEACEABLE SOLUTION OF PHILA DELPHIA TROUBLE IS PREDICTED.

POLITICIANS ARE AT WORK

Rioting is Renewed and Men on Elevated Lines Join Surface Road Strikers—Machinists of the B. & O. Walk Out.

Philadelphia, June 4.—The strike of the motormen and conductors of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, which began on last Saturday morning, is now in the process of settlement, and those having the matter in charge confidently assert that it will be brought to a close within a few hours.

Violent rioting which started Wednesday was renewed yesterday in various sections of the city. Most of the disturbances occurred at the noon hour, when workers amused themselves by throwing bricks and other missiles at passing motormen and conductors.

Elevated Men Quit Work.

For the first time since the strike began employees on the elevated road deserted their posts and joined the strikers. This line, however, continued in operation all day. Cars on the other lines of the company ran at regular intervals until nightfall, when no further attempt was made to continue the service.

Influential political leaders bent all their energies towards bringing the trouble to a peaceable conclusion. Senator McNichol, the recognized Republican leader, and Senator Vane, who controls the down-town section, announced that they sympathized with the men and were trying to bring the strike to an end.

Demands of Men Submitted.

After a conference with strike leaders at his home, Senator McNichol, on behalf of the men, submitted to the company the demands of the men. These, it is understood, were somewhat modified from their original demands. Twenty-two cents an hour, instead of 25 cents, originally asked by the men, is said to be the new demand. In addition, the men ask the privilege of buying their uniforms in the open market; a day's work to consist of not more than ten hours; the abolition of the "sawing" system; the reinstatement of all the old men and a settlement of all future difficulties by conferring with a committee representing the men. These demands, when submitted to the transit company, according to Senator McNichol, were accepted to with some slight modifications.

Machinists Quit Railroad Shops.

Baltimore, Md., June 4.—Five hundred machinists on every branch of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad system laid down their tools, donned their street clothes, and went out on strike.

This action, it was stated at the machinists' headquarters here, is the result of the introduction of the piece work system in the erecting departments of the M. & O. shops, which led to the strike of machinists there a few weeks ago, and what the men claim was equivalent to a refusal of the company at the conference between Vice-President Potter and their representatives to reinstate the M. & O. men.

Wedding Pages in Pretty Garb.

At the wedding of the head master of Eastbourne college, England, the three pages in the bridal procession were garbed as scholars, in black with knee breeches, buckled shoes, scarlet silk gowns, with white shirt fronts. Each carried a mortar-board hat and a scarlet-bound prayer book.

GRACE D. MILLER.
 My commission expires July 14, 1909.

EYES THAT SEE
 The United States senate was treated to an exhibition of knowledge and memory, the other day, which was a revelation, and the experience was so novel that it not only attracted but held attention, for the discovery was soon made that Senator Gore, the blind man from Oklahoma, possessed a mind so thoroughly illumined that his eyes were soon forgotten.

Sonator Gore was discussing the textile schedule, and for an hour quoted from memory figures given in corporation reports, as correctly as though read from the printed page. These figures were given to substantiate his claim that the textile mills of New England were making large profits and paying extravagant dividends because of over-protection. When the eastern senators questioned his statements, he came back with facts and figures taken from mill reports.

He showed, for instance, that the Algonquin Print company, which is the direct beneficiary of one of the most oppressive paragraphs in the textile schedule, has a surplus on the capital stock of 150 per cent and has paid on the average for nine years an annual dividend of 67 1/2 per cent.

The Union Manufacturing company of Fall River, a town connected by trolley with Providence, where Senator Aldrich has his office, paid 40 1/2 per cent. The American Linen company of the same town declared a dividend of 11 per cent, with net earnings of 30 per cent.

Other big dividends were the Sagamore company, 42 per cent; the Massachusetts Cotton mills, 41 per cent; and the Tecumseh mills, 34 per cent. These are facts which a blind man saw with the clear vision of a well-trained mind, and they came as a startling revelation to the New England senators, who "having eyes see not" and having ears fail to recognize the voice of the people in demanding that over-protected industries be regulated, and tariff abuses corrected.

Sonator Gore is a democrat, but he voices popular sentiment in his efforts to serve the people. He may represent the minority in congress but the great majority on the outside is with him, and his sense of vision is a good deal clearer than that of many of his colleagues. The action of the senate is calling out much unfavorable criticism, which is tersely expressed in a paragraph from the Wall Street Journal, a paper noted for conservatism:

"The spectacle at present afforded by the United States senate is an insult to every self-respecting American. It exhibits a statement supposed to be acting in a national capacity owned by soul and pocketbook by petty local interests, while our corporation after another shows that it can snap its fingers at the promises made by the republican president and all his party before election, and accepted by the American people."

THE COMMON SCHOOLS

Everywhere rich men are giving vast sums to endow colleges or start new ones. The crying need of the United States today is not colleges and universities, but rather better country schools. Our educational system is becoming top-heavy. We are spending money tremendously for top gear and going barefooted. Why don't some big millionaires in Wisconsin build, say, twenty-five or thirty country agricultural schools? No would reach more people, do more real, substantial good in this way at less expense than a dozen universities can accomplish."—Jefferson County Union.

This is ex-Governor Board's opinion of education and it strikes a popular chord, for people are coming to realize that the great mass of children who enter life from the public schools are entitled to more intelligent treatment.

The public schools are not suffering for money, to any large extent. What the system needs is revision along practical lines, so that the boy who graduates from the grades or possibly from the high school, may have something to show besides a diploma.

The time is coming when the central district school will take the place of the country schoolhouse, and when city high schools will devote more time to practical education.

NATIVE BORN CITIZENS
 Mayor James Logan of Worcester, Mass., thus discusses the duties of citizenship:

"The great peril of this country is not the active political interest of the foreigner, but the indifference and neglect of the native-born citizen. The danger is not from the man who has been forced from his native land across the sea, but from the indifference of the man who fails to realize his debt of obligation for blessings which have been handed down to him as a heritage, purchased at a fearful cost."

"We must not think that our only danger comes from the ignorant and vicious classes, for if we do, we deceive ourselves. The prominent citizen, the businessman in politics, is often one of the toughest propositions under present conditions. He is the man who approaches the appointing power and intercedes to have a notoriously unfit man appointed to office."

"The prominent citizen often is the man who signs the petition to grant a license to this or that man to keep a saloon, so that he can have a tenant for his store, regardless how disreputable a joint the tenant may keep. He signs petitions without number to have this or that thing done, and kicks when the government does just what he asked to have done. But, when petitions were presented to him for his signature he was lacking the courage to say 'No,' and he is the man who is to blame when our representatives in the city hall or statehouse do what the petition told them their constituents desired done."

"I submit that it is not fair, or honest, to dodge a plain duty in this way, to ask your servants to do what you do not really think ought to be done, and then throw the responsibility on other men with the hope that they will have the 'nerve' to stand out in the open and do what you do not dare to do yourself privately."

"This sensible talk is true to the letter, and applies with equal force to all sections of the country. Lack of moral courage and selfishness are prominent factors in municipal life. It is easy to blame a mayor and criticize officials, but difficult to appreciate the personal equation or recognize individual responsibility."

Sonator La Follette is engaged in another filibustering campaign, much to the disgust of the senate, as well as to the people at large. There is nothing to be gained by these tactics, and the Wisconsin senator is the only man inclined to pursue them. The country is waiting for a tariff bill and many lines of business are suffering. La Follette can accomplish nothing by attempting to delay proceedings, and what he has to say will not effect the issue.

The state senate, after wasting five months of time, is attempting to rush through neglected business in 48 hours, without regard to consequences. Some bills were passed yesterday by a single affirmative vote. That's the sort of legislation which gives business to the courts and humiliates a state.

The supreme court has confirmed the decision of the lower court in the case of Chas. F. Plator against the Milwaukee Free Press and the award of $15,000, for libel damages is sustained. This judgment directly interferes with the business of the courts and humiliates a state.

With the Milwaukee barber-shops closed on Sunday the baseball parks and all other places of amusement are likely to follow suit, as the barbers propose that the law shall recognize no favorites.

Under the provision of a new law all applications for saloon licenses must be advertised, giving name of bondsmen. This publicity is intended for public information, and furnishes opportunity to file objections to undesirable applicants.

The assembly will also go into the investigating business, and many surprises are promised. For a continuous vaudeville performance the legislature of 1909 has no rival.

Oh, you tell me, Charles Augustus, that your love will never die, that your passion is eternal, would you write my name, you tell me, on the reaches of the sky, you would brand it on the crimson face of Mars, you would dare the Hyrcan tiger, you would brave the Arctic snow, you would face at least a dozen kinds of death, but I ask no such devotion—it is this that I would know: Will you love me when there's onion on my breath? You have named a hundred horrors that you'd meet with dauntless breast, if you thought such deeds would make me love you more; you would slay the fiery dragons in the mountains of the west, you would slay the foul enchanters in their gorges; you would scorn the mystic terrors of the Arab's Thousand Nights, you would harry all the witches of Macbeth; but the one doubt still assails me, and my gentle soul afloats—will you love me when there's onion on my breath?

MOTHER LOVE.
 Look, how this love—this mother—runs through all
 This world God made, even the beast, the bird.
 —Tennyson.

Mother love, which, as Tennyson says, runs through all the world, is limitless. It is as spontaneous, as exhaustless as the love of God.

An exchange tells the story of an Indian mother down on the Texas coast who, with her children, faced starvation. The mother searched everywhere along the shore for food. Finally she could walk no more.

Then this poor mother cut a strip of flesh from her own body, which she used as a bait to tempt the crab. And thus she fed her babes until help came to her.

Mother love demanded the pound of flesh, and there was no shirking, and there would have been no shirking had the flesh been taken nearest the mother's heart.

Motherhood pays its debts to the last farthing.

Not long ago the newspapers told the story of how Mrs. Ella McArthur journeyed on foot 1,000 miles, drawing a little express wagon, that she might keep her children together and reach some relatives in the north.

It was the only way the mother knew, and she gladly undertook the journey. It was a true heroic—one of the many in the annals of mother love.

Love for her unborn child leads the future mother down into the valley and shadow of death—willingly, cheerfully, hopefully—and love leads her to offer herself through all the years a living sacrifice for that child.

It matters not whether the mother be rich or poor.

Against the protest of her physicians the daughter of Queen Victoria impulsively kissed her child who was dying of diphtheria. The mother died because of it, but she could not deny the dying request of her little one for a kiss.

Mother love gives all. For the love of her wayward boy Mrs. Thaw poured out the devotion of a mother's heart and unselfishly gave her money to save that boy from the gallows.

Mother love stops short only at working miracles.

The Ban on Horseflesh.

It is said that the prejudice which exists against horseflesh rests, to some extent, on a religious basis. The missionaries who converted the Saxons prohibited the consumption of this food, as being reminiscent of heathen sacrifices and feasts. Quatrefage tells that "the Saxons usually celebrated any religious into the beliefs of their forefathers by a massacre of the priests and a banquet of horseflesh, both held on the same day." Gregory III, wrote to St. Boniface in 731: "I am told that some of your flock still eat the flesh of the wild horse, and most of them eat the flesh of their own horses when these are killed. Henceforth, most holy brother, this must not be allowed. Use every possible means to abolish this custom, and impose a heavy penalty on all devourers of horseflesh. They are unclean, and their conduct is execrable."

METAL SHEETING FOR SEWER WORK

NEW DEVICE WILL BE TRIED AND MAY HASTEN WORK.

1,982 FEET UNFINISHED

Dig Pipe Line Has Reached the Intersection of Western Avenue and South High Street.

In order to facilitate the work and to increase the speed at which they are now laying the pipe, the People's Construction company of Dayton, Ohio, which has charge of the laying of the main sewer, intend now to substitute for the wooden plank now used in the sheeting for the trench, strips of corrugated sheet iron. Each section of sheeting is about half an inch in thickness, twenty-four feet long, and eighteen inches in width. Every place is grooved to fit the one adjoining so that when several of them are driven into the ground they are locked together.

The new device is an experiment and as to its success no prophesies are made, but if it does prove practical, it will no doubt be a great saver of time and money. Instead of the old method of digging the trenches and then driving in the planks that form the support for the sides, a trench about six inches deep will be excavated to set the strips in and the sheeting will be driven into the ground with a pile-driver. The scheme, while practically entirely new, has been tried in a different manner by the company before. At another town in which they were working, they tried to make use of a metal sheeting, but used a thinner strip and the following in piling down the strips was lighter. As a result the experiment there was a failure, the ends of the sheeting merely being panned down. However, with this new size, which is thicker, and with a live hundred pound follower, it is hoped that the experiment here will be successful. If it is it will mean that the work to be done will be accomplished in from six weeks to two months sooner than it could be done by continuing as they are now. Besides all of the force now working under the present system of pipe-laying will not be required in the trenches and one-half of them can begin work on Jackson street, putting down the sheeting. With the sixty-five pieces of sheeting, weighing 51,000 pounds, which they now have, they expect to increase their capacity about fifty feet per week. A hoist engine will pull out the sheeting after the pipes have been put down.

The experimenting with the new device will be started as soon as Mr. Crowley, head of the firm in charge of the work, arrives here, which will be about a week hence.

Nearing Completion.
Of the main sewer nearly six thousand of the eight thousand feet of pipe have been laid and 1,982 feet remain. If the new scheme is a success they expect to complete this about the first of September.

The work on the main sewer has now progressed to the man-hole at the intersection of Western Avenue and South High street. Here the main sewer will turn onto South High street. The pipes are being laid at a depth of twenty-four feet and will continue at this depth for about four blocks. The level will then be raised gradually until it intersects with the man-hole on River street where the pipes will be but twelve feet underground.

Turning a Corner.
A fifty-foot radius will be used in making the turn from Western Avenue onto South High street. For this purpose special pipe has been made. A computation of the number of feet of pipe required and the number of pipes necessary, was first made and then they figured how much each would have to be shortened to make the curve. The ordinary pipe used are three feet in length, but the special pipe is three feet on one side and two-thirds of a foot long on the other side. The digging machine is unable to penetrate with the curve and the men will have to labor without this to help them. The digging machine will be sent forward to put in seven hundred feet of twelve inch pipe along Western Avenue.

River Seepage Problem.
One of the difficulties which has troubled them less of late than formerly is that of seepage water from the river coming into the trenches where the men have been working. At one time the men laying the pipe were working in from a foot to sixteen inches of water, but the river has been receding and the level of the seepage water has been lowered.

House Connections.
One matter of interest to many is that of making house connections along the streets on which the main sewer is located. Some have had the idea that it would be necessary to excavate down to the sewer to make the connections, but house connections are being carried up so that it will only be necessary to dig down about eight or nine feet to reach them.

Wanted on Center Ave.
Residents of Center Avenue, on which there have been laid, are patrolling for connections with the main sewer as their correspondents are filling up. City Engineer Korch has taken this matter up with Mr. Crowley but whether this will be allowed before the sewer is completed depends upon Mr. Crowley's decision.

SEALED PROPOSALS.
Notice is hereby given that the Town Board of the Town of Fulton, will receive bids for grading the Newville road, commencing at the east limits of the city of Elgin, requiring the removal of about 2,000 yards of dirt up to 12 o'clock, Monday, June 7th, 1909. The board will be in the road Monday forenoon to specify the work to be done.

U. G. MILLER,
Chairman.

Until Saturday Noon
bids will be received on the sewing machines at Russell & Daniels. Both machines are in perfect condition. Call and see the machines. On the Square.

FARMERS TAUGHT
REGARDING FROST

UNIVERSITY HAS ISSUED BULLETIN TO AGRICULTURALISTS.

WISCONSIN'S CONDITIONS

Pamphlet Tells How to Protect Them
And Methods of Protection.

A special study of frosts in Wisconsin with a view to protecting various crops from damage, has been made by James L. Bartlett, meteorology assistant professor of agriculture at the University of Wisconsin, who has just published the results in a bulletin now in the university press.

After discussing conditions producing light and heavy frosts and those "killing" frosts so destructive to farm products, the bulletin gives several tables and maps showing the average dates of the first killing frosts in various parts of the state and the local weather conditions attendant.

A valuable and interesting feature of the work is that of the actual growing season in different parts of the state. The average dates of the latest spring and the earliest autumn frosts for forty-seven districts in forty-three counties are tabulated, showing the average and the extreme limits of the killing frosts in the regions of the Lake Superior shore, the northern, middle, and southern interior, the Mississippi river bottoms, and the Lake Michigan and Green Bay shore.

Small Lakes Prevent Frosts.

"It is possible that the high elevation of the northern interior portion of the state is partly responsible for its liability to frost," says Professor Bartlett. "Many points in that section have an elevation of 1,000 to 1,500 feet above sea level, and of 500 to 1,000 feet above the great lakes, making them somewhat more liable to low temperatures at night than are places of less elevation."

The strong influence of small lakes in the prevention of frosts in the district is shown by statistics of the frost dates about Lake Winnebago and Big Water Lake. The growing season (from killing frosts) is 147 days at Oshkosh, 146 at Watertown, 142 at Chilton, and 131 at Fond du Lac. At Madison, which is situated between Mendota and Monona lakes, the growing season is a month longer than at Harvard, which is directly east of Madison, nearer Lake Michigan, but away from the influence of small lakes. It is suggested that a like immunity from frosts can doubtless be found around many of the small bodies of water in the northeastern part of the state.

Though data as to the limits of the lighter frosts in Wisconsin are not abundant, it is safe to assume, Prof. Bartlett says, that light frosts may occur on the average two or three weeks after the last killing frost in the spring, and the same length of time before the first killing frost of autumn.

Farmers May Get Warning.

During seasons when frosts may cause damage to crops, warnings are telegraphed from the weather bureau office at Chicago to numerous centers throughout Wisconsin, and from thence distributed by mail or telephone, so that anyone on a telephone line should be able to obtain such warnings by noon of the day before the frost is expected. As the predictions are of a general character for large sections, and intended for the protection of the more important crops, they may not always apply to particular locations. Copies of the weather maps upon which the predictions are based are loaned at Milwaukee, Madison, La Crosse and Green Bay, as well as at Duluth and St. Paul in Minnesota, Dubuque in Iowa, and Escanaba in Michigan.

Crops in general are damaged less by spring frosts than by those in autumn, since those destroyed by a killing frost in June may be replanted and good yields often secured, when a September frost may injure beyond recovery maturing crops upon which much labor has been expended. The chief damage to corn, for instance, is that of September frosts before the kernel has hardened, reducing the yield from 10 to 20 per cent for many fields. Small grains are liable to little injury from frosts, except occasionally in June, since they are harvested before the autumn frosts. Fruits are damaged chiefly by the freezing of buds or blossoms late in spring, which reduces or destroys the crop for the season.

Cranberries, being grown on bogs, are particularly liable to injury by frost in summer; when unprotected, as much as half the crop has been destroyed in August. Often when June frosts cut down young potato plants, they again without replanting. Damage may be caused to the crop by leaving the potatoes in the ground too late, when both the tubers and the earth about them freeze. Garden crops need protection from both spring and fall frosts, while tobacco fields frequently need protection when the seed is in the ground. The tobacco crop is harvested before the fall frosts, however, and thus is not liable to such injury.

How to Save Crops.

The bulletin suggests a large number of methods of artificial protection from frosts, including those for warming the air, raising the dew point, retarding radiation, and covering the plants. In the timber country, log or stump fires on the windward side of fields have been used. A fire in a hollow or in the drainage bed of down-drafting cold currents has often prevented cold air from accumulating in low places. In some districts good results were obtained from the use of sprinklers, and in irrigated plots flooding has been practiced, especially on cranberry marshes. Screens of glass, cloth, or lath have been used successfully, and a dense flow of damp smoky air has been blown over a high wind. Strawberries may be covered by hay or straw, and young potato plants by a light covering of earth, which, however, should not be left on long. Such artificial protection is profitable usually only with garden stuff, small fruits, and such plants as return a large enough profit per acre to warrant the expense of protection.

One of the simplest methods of warding off frost injury is the free use of water. Thorough sprinkling flower gardens, fruit patches, grape vines, and similar vegetation the night before a frost gives excellent protection, frequently more effective than a solid covering. Even vegetation which has been frozen already may sometimes be saved by thorough sprinkling.

LIEUTENANT BAKER
HAS BEEN RETIREDBrother of Mrs. Edward Kemmerer
Forced to Leave Active Army
Service Owing to Disability.

Lieutenant John H. Baker, a brother of Mrs. Edward Kemmerer, who has many friends in the city, has been retired from the regular army owing to disability he received while in active service in the Philippines. Lieutenant Baker was in Janesville a year ago and left to resign his commission at Presidio. Before the Spanish-American war he was a sergeant in Company G of Madison First Regiment Wisconsin National Guard and served through that war with the Madison company. Later he was appointed captain in the volunteer army and took part in the Philippine insurrection. He was mustered out of the volunteer service and later appointed as second lieutenant in the regulars and again went to the Philippines. At the time of his retirement he was well up in the list of first lieutenants. As a retired officer he will receive $137.50 a month pay given to officers of his rank who are retired for disabilities. This will not, however, prevent his acting as military instructor at military schools or colleges, or entering into business. It is expected he will visit his sister here in Janesville during the summer.

Western Depot.

While crossing the tracks near the North-Western depot about seven o'clock last evening, William James, aged 62 years, caught his left foot between a rail and the crossing and fell and broke the limb near the ankle. He was conveyed in Russell's ambulance to Mercy hospital where Mrs. Woods and Miss Munn set the fractured limb. Mr. James has been employed by Bartholomew Spence, a gardener. He was on the way to his home, 1502 Pleasant street, when the accident occurred. Though the pain is very severe, he is reported to be getting along as well as can be expected under the circumstances.

PASTOR THREATENS SUICIDE.

Milwaukee Police Search for Minister
Who Is Missing.

Milwaukee, June 4.—Rev. T. C. Wulfsberg, pastor of Zion Evangelical Lutheran church, Greenfield and Ninth avenues, has mysteriously disappeared and his whereabouts are now being investigated by the police. He left a letter in which he intimated that his body would soon be found in Lake Michigan and cursing his enemies, body and soul. A sensational light in the congregation is said to be the cause of his disappearance, but members of the congregation refuse to discuss the subject. That he had enemies was known, but that his troubles extended to such a degree as to make him commit suicide, was not given a thought by members of the congregation.

Michigan Towns In Peril.

FINISHING UP WORK
ABOUT WAREHOUSESBut Very Little Is Being Done in the Tobacco Field at Present—
Plants Backward.

This is the tobacco and betelnut season for the tobacco men. In Janesville, Edgerton, Stoughton and Broadhead but little is being done by the buyers beyond straightening up their warehouses and packing away the cases remaining of the 1908 crop. The farmers are busy with their corn and the extreme late season has delayed the getting out of the plants or really of their great progress in the seed beds. However crop have improved the newly in the last week. The much desired warm weather has come, which in connection with the rain, which kept the soil well watered, has set all vegetation ahead with amazing rapidity. Under such conditions the plant beds are making phenomenal growth and fast making up for the delays earlier in the season. It seems quite certain now that many growers will find their plants will be in readiness by the time they can prepare the fields to receive them, which ought not to be very much behind the usual transplanting season in this state. Plant beds on many farms will need transferring to the fields by the 15th and possibly before that date which will mean that growers cannot lose much time in getting their fields ready for the crop. As, however, though the season may be late in starting out, a reasonable amount of seasonable weather at the proper time helps bring about a recovery very quickly, and the tobacco crop which goes into the fields after the summer is well under way seldom suffers.

The following appears in the Edgerton Tobacco Reporter:

"What little work there is yet being done around the warehouses to complete the handling of the '08 crop at the packing points is about the only reminder now visible of the movement almost closed. Nowhere do we hear of any effort to secure the remainder in growers' hands. The situation regarding the old leaf market remains practically unchanged. A sale of two 600 lots of '08 and '07 by Janesville packers is reported. Packers are receiving more frequent inquiry for samples and prices, which is an encouraging feature, as well as the revenue reports showing an increased output of manufactured products. We learn, too, of several fair sized transactions that are under consideration that are likely to lead to a larger volume of business in current leaf."

It is seldom that the plant beds have made more rapid advancement than during the past week. Ideal weather conditions have prevailed and the young plants of many farms will be ready for transplanting the coming week and thereafter the planting season will proceed. Growers will find themselves pushed to prepare their fields to accommodate the fast growing plants.

The shipments out of storage reach 655 cases and 2 cars of bundles from this market to all points for the week past."

HICKS' PREDICTIONS
FOR MONTH OF JUNESt. Louis Weather Prophet Sends Out
Camp Bulletin for Present

Month.

Reverend Mr. Hicks, whose long range weather prognostications are looked for by many a damp prediction for the present month. According to this big weather prophet, who months ahead can tell whether it will rain or not, says the present month will be cloudy. There are going to be all sorts of storms with wind and rain mixed in pretty freely. Of course there may be some earthquakes and since the experience of the shock of some days ago many believe Mr. Hicks knows what he is talking about. His description of the weather for the month begins with yesterday's and today's storms.

"A reactionary storm period is central on the 3rd, 4th and 5th. High temperature, low barometer and thunder storms will be the order at this time. Storm conditions will develop and move in regular order from the west to the east."

"A regular storm period is central on the 10th, lasting from the 8th to the 12th. Magnetic and electrical manifestations, out of the ordinary, will be noted in most parts of the earth within three days of the 11th from Thursday the 10th, to Sunday the 13th, many violent thunderstorms will be natural. Cooler weather will follow for several days after the storms of this period."

"A reactionary storm period has its center on the 16th, 17th and 18th, with new moon and eclipse on the 17th."

"A regular storm period is central on the 21st, covering the 19th and 23rd. The culmination of the June solstice falls precisely in this period. Overflowing stream and rivers are the most natural consequence of the June solstice storms."

"A reactionary storm period is central on the 26th, 27th and 28th. Look for low barometer, tempest and the 26th attended by sun and severe thunder gusts, the 26th, 27th and 28th being characterized by the peculiar local phenomena common to June solstice storms."

WILL WATT WRITES OF WESTERN SALARY

Former Alderman Compares Janesville Police Men's Pay With That of Reno.

In an interesting and breezy communication former Alderman William W. Watt, who now lives in Reno, talks of the pay of the policemen in Reno and Janesville and advocates the raising of the pay of both the police and firemen in Janesville. Mr. Watt forgets, however, the difference in the class of citizens between Reno and Janesville and that the requirements of a Reno policeman is much more than that of Janesville, but the better brother of interest in his old home city and is published as written, Reno, Nevada, May 31, 1909.

Editor Gazette:

With much interest I read in a recent issue of the Gazette where Chief of Police Appleby petitioned the council to raise the salary of the policemen from $30 to $70 per month. As the city of Reno is practically the same size as Janesville I interviewed the chief of police here regarding the salaries paid the regular patrolmen. The smallest salary paid here is $95 per month and this will soon be raised to an even $100. This city also has a force of mounted police who patrol all sections of the residence section at night. The chief here is paid $125 per month and his first assistant $125. When informed that the regular patrolmen on the Janesville force received but $30 per month, the chief of the Reno force said:

"If you expect good men to remain in the service you have at least got to pay them living wages."

A man even without a family to support can live on $50 per month is a mystery that I am unable to solve. The police force here is the one important department of every well regulated city and it is an impossibility to obtain the desired results when a council insists on paying good men a salary no higher than the average grocery clerk demands. Pay your men at least living wages and you will get the desired results."

The Reno fire department consists of twenty-two regular men who are paid the same salary as the police department. These twenty-two firemen are off duty twenty-four hours each week. The engine houses here are models and on the second floor the boys have billiard and pool rooms as well as a fully equipped gymnasium so that life is worth living. In this part of the far west 18-year-old boys driving grocery wagons receive $50 per month, and if I was still a member of the Janesville common council I would cast my vote in favor of raising the salary of both the patrolmen and firemen on a basis of not less than $75 per month.

Truly yours,

WILLIAM W. WATT.

Just after two telephone linemen had completed some repairs at the corner of School and North Locust street and descended from the pole, yesterday afternoon, an electric wire carrying 2,300 volts broke and fell across the lines, producing a succession of sparks and flashes which vividly reminded them of their narrow escape. England Losing Population.

The increasing exodus of emigrants is alarming England. Mr. Ellis Barker in the Nineteenth Century points out that the chief cause of emigration is unemployment and ill-paid employment. "Lately emigration has been increasing at an alarming rate. The net total, 71,188 in 1900, rose to 129,365 in 1905 and 237,204 in 1907. "Nations which choose to rely for their food on foreign countries, and which cannot export a sufficient quantity of manufactures to pay for them, have to export men. WOULD REGULATE DRAMSHOPS

Delegates at Brewers' Convention

Talk Against Saloon Dives.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 4.—Proper regulations of the liquor traffic and a strict enforcement of the laws governing saloons were strongly recommended by speakers at the final session of the annual convention of the United States Brewers' association.

Percy Andrews of the Ohio State Brewers' association, said the low dives were largely responsible for the agitation against the liquor business and he urged the members of the association to pledge themselves to assist the authorities in wiping them out. William C. Manchester of the Michigan State Brewers' association took the same stand.

The new president of the association, Carl J. Hoster of Columbus, O., pledged himself to devote his efforts as the head of the organization to obtaining the proper regulation of saloons, the enforcement of the laws and a separation of the liquor laws from those which have been crisscrossed into the dispensing of beer.

PURE BLOOD.

THE SECRET OF A GOOD COM-

PLEXION—HOW TO ATTAIN IT

Sufferers are beginning to realize that external applications will not rid the skin of the blemishes of eczema, pimples, blackheads, rash, etc. The remedy must go deeper, to the seat of the trouble—the blood.

And it is for this reason that the remedy known as Dr. Taylor's Remedy has been so successful, and has become so widely known and used.

This really great blood purifier absolutely destroys all the poisonous germs in the system, that cause skin blemishes. Its quick and thorough action, in even the worst cases of eczema, has surprised the delighted an enormous number of patients who had despaired of relief under the ordinary treatment of physicians and "so-called" remedies. The record of Dr. Taylor's Remedy is therefore one of unflinching success, and in its use is surely found the secret of a clearer, beautiful complexion.

An illustrative booklet describing the remedy will be mailed free by the Dr. Taylor Remedy Co., Philadelphia, and the remedy itself and booklet can be obtained at Smith's Drug Co., and at all first-class druggists.

GREAT MUSICAL FESTIVAL AT FERGUS FALLS, MINN.

Newly Organized Red River Valley Association Holds First Biennial Meeting.

Fergus Falls, Minn., June 4.—Musical Norwegians from Minnesota and North Dakota in large numbers are attending the first biennial festival of the Red River Valley Scandinavian Singers' association which began in this city today.

The singers and their friends at ten o'clock formed a parade, and, led by Grand Marshal Hans Mortenson, marched to the Lyceum theater, where they were formally welcomed by Mayor J. L. Townley and Martin W. Odell of Ljorn Singing society. Response was made by Judge L. K. Hase, president of the association, and after a rehearsal adjournment was taken for luncheon. In the afternoon the visitors were given an automobile tour of the city. To-night the first big concert will be given in the Lyceum.

Following a delegate convention in the morning, tomorrow will be full of music, and after the evening concert there is to be a banquet in the Grand hotel. Sunday the singers will have an excursion to Battle Lake, and the next day they return to their homes.

The soloists taking part in the concert are Gustav Holmquist of Chicago, Miss Augusta Schacht of Fergus Falls and Miss Mildred Romsdahl of Fargo. Miss Mortenson of Moorhead is the accompanist, and P. A. Rude of Fargo is the director.

The Red River Valley association was organized at Fargo last January at a convention called by the Orpheus Singing society. L. K. Hase, who was elected president, is a prominent citizen of Grand Forks and is serving his second term as county judge. He was born at Biri, Norway, in 1862, and came to America in 1881. J. C. Kwof of Fergus Falls is vice-president, John Furuseth of Fergus Falls secretary, and H. P. Halvorsen of Fargo treasurer.

MAKE REPORT ON BAD WATER.

Committee on Pollution of Streams Presents Data to Convention.

Washington, June 4.—The committee on "Pollution of Streams," appointed last year, of which also H. Seymour, secretary of the New York state department of health is chairman, today presented its report to the meeting of the state and provincial boards of health of North America. The other members of the committee are Dr. Charles O. Probst, secretary of the Ohio state board of health, and Dr. H. D. Holton, secretary of the Vermont state board of health.

Studies of conditions all over the United States and reports of state health departments show that there have been many epidemics of typhoid fever directly due to this practice; that in many cases public nuisances have been caused, and that many of the waters of the various states are rendered unfit for domestic and manufacturing purposes. Fish life has been destroyed and the waters ruined for boating, bathing and fishing and rendered objectionable and obnoxious in other ways.

GROCERS ATTACK FOOD LAW.

Oppose Rule Which Requires Name of Guarantor on Packages.

Detroit, Mich., June 4.—The National Wholesale Grocers' association at its convention here went on record as being opposed to the new regulation of the government food inspection department which requires the name of the guarantor to be shown on packages of food products.

This order was recently made, and rescinds the present serial number system of guaranty. By the resolution adopted the executive committee of the association will endeavor to have the order amended in this respect either to continue the present serial number system or to induce the food department to adopt, by January 1, when the new order is effective, the invoice or blanket guaranty if the present method is deemed inadvisable.

STEALS FLOWERS OFF GRAVE.

Odd Charge Made Against Springfield (Ill.) Woman.

Springfield, Ill., June 4.—Charged with stealing flowers from the grave of her husband, Mrs. Sarah Richman was arrested on complaint of her brother-in-law, Carl Ferguson.

Ferguson alleges he placed the flowers on the grave of his brother-in-law yesterday morning. Investigating, he says, he found them in a vase decorating the porch of the woman.

When confronted with the charge in the police court, Mrs. Richman merely stated "that was no place for flowers," admitting she had taken them. She was released on bond.

Poor Photographs of Eclipse.

Cambridge, Mass., June 4.—Regarding the total eclipse of the moon, which was visible for an hour last night, officials at the Harvard observatory said conditions were not good for successfully photographing the spectacle. The clouds, it was said, were so heavily banked at times as to obscure the phenomenon.

Father Stain; Girl Indicted.

St. Paul, Minn., June 4.—The Ramsey county grand jury returned an indictment against Louise Arbogast, the 22-year-old daughter of Louis Arbogast, the butcher who was murdered in his home on the morning of May 13, charging her with the murder of her father.

John W. Speas a Suicide.

Kansas City, June 4.—John W. Speas, a prominent business and clubman, committed suicide at his home here by shooting. He had been ill with health and was despondent.

The BLACK BAG

By Louis Joseph Vance

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"Scotland Yard," he told her bluntly.

"This afternoon for the first time we received news of the Calendars. Calender himself called upon me to beg a loan, I explained our difficulty, and wholly unconvinced.

"And what," she demanded, with a gesture of exasperation—"what would you advise?"

"Scotland Yard," he told her bluntly. "But it's a family secret. It must not appear in the papers. Don't you understand? George Calender is my husband's cousin."

"I can think of nothing else unless you pursue them in person."

"But whither?"

"That remains to be discovered. I can tell you nothing more than I have. May I thank you for your hospitality, express my regrets that I should unwittingly have been made the agent of this disaster and wish you good night, or, rather, good morning, Mrs. Hal-lam?"

For a moment she held him under a calculating glance, which he withstood with graceful fortitude. Then, realizing that he was determined not by any means to be won to her cause, she gave him her hand, with a commonplace wish that he might find his affairs in better order than seemed probable, and rang for Eccles.

The butler showed him out.

"Well," appreciated Mr. Kirkwood, with gusto, "she's got Ananias and Sapphira talked to a stupor, all right!" He ruminated over this for a moment. "Calender can lie some, too, but hardly with his picturesque touch. Uncommon ingenious, I call it. All the same, there were only about a dozen bits of fluff that didn't fit into her mosaic a little bit. I think they're all tattered with the same stick—all but the girl. And there's something about a long slight more devilish and crafty than that shilling shocker of audacity. Dorothy Calender's got about as much active part in it as I have. I'm only from California, but they've got to show me before I'll believe a word against her. Those infernal secondaries! Somebody's got to be on the girl's side, and I seem to have drawn the lucky straw. Good heavens! Is it possible for a grown man to fall head over heels in love in two short hours? I don't believe it. It's just interest—nothing more. And I'll have to have a change of clothes before I can do anything further."

He struck across town as directly as might be for St. Pancras station. It would undoubtedly be a long walk, but cups were prohibited by his strictest means, and the buses were all used and wouldn't be until for hours.

He strode along rapidly, finding his way more through intuition than by observation or familiarity with London's geography—indeed, was scarce aware of his surroundings, for his brain was big with the lunacy, rapt in a glowing dream of knight errantry and chivalric deeds.

CHAPTER XIII.

KIRKWOOD wasted little time. He had not much to waste were he to do that upon whose life he had set his heart. It took him some time to have to lose the invaluable moments demanded by certain imperative arrangements, but his haste was such that all was consummated within an hour.

Within the period of a single hour, then, he had ransomed his luggage at St. Pancras, caused it to be loaded upon a four wheeler and transferred to a neighboring hotel of evil flavor, but moderate tariff, where he engaged a room for a week, ordered an immediate breakfast and retired with his belongings to his room. He had shaved and changed his clothes, selecting a serviceable suit of heavy tweeds, stout shoes, a fur and aft cap and a negligible shirt of a deep shade, calculated at least to seem clean for a long time. Finally he had devoured his bacon and eggs, gulped down his coffee and burned his mouth and, armed with a stout stick, set off hotfoot in the still dim glimmering of early day.

By this time his cash capital had dwindled to the sum of £2.10s. 6d. and would have been much less had he paid for his lodging in advance.

At King's Cross station on the underground an acute disappointment awaited him. There likewise he learned something about London. A sympathetic bobby informed him that no trains would be running until after 5.30 and that, furthermore, no buses would begin to ply until half after 7.

"It's trump it or cab it, then," mused the young man mournfully, his long, lank gaze seeking a nearby cab rank, just then occupied by a solitary hansom, driver somnolent on the box.

"Officer," he again addressed the policeman, mindful of the English axiom, "When in doubt ask a bobby!" "Officer, when's high tide this morning?"

The bobby produced a well worn pocket almanac, moistened a massive thumb and flipped the page.

"London bridge," he high tide twenty minutes after 8, sir," he announced, with a glow of satisfaction wholly pardonable in one who combines the functions of perambulating almanac, guidebook, encyclopaedia and conservator of the peace.

Kirkwood said something beneath his breath, a word in itself a comfortable mouthful and wholesome and emphatic. He glanced again at the almanac and groaned, "O Lord, I just dashed it with which, thinking the bobby of information, he set off rapidly down Grey's Inn road to find the Alhambra before she sailed. Proceeding upon the working hypothesis that Mrs. Hallam was a published liar in most respects, but had told the truth so far as concerned her statement to the effect that the goldstone bag contained valuable property, whose ownership remained a moot question, though Kirkwood was definitely committed to the belief that it was none of Mrs. Hallam's or her son's, he reasoned that the two adventurers, with Dorothy and their booty, would attempt to leave London by a water route in the ship Alethea, whose name had fallen from their lips at Bermondsey Old Stairs.

Kirkwood's initial task, then, would be to find the needle in the haystack. The metaphor is poor—more properly, to sort out from the hundreds of vessels of all descriptions at anchor in midstream, moored to the wharfs of longshore warehouses or in the gigantic docks that line the Thames, that one called Alethea, of which he was so deeply mixed in ignorance that he could not say whether she were tramp steamer, constant passenger boat, one of the liners that ply between Tilbury and all the world, channel ferryboat, private yacht (steam or sail), schooner, four masted, square rigged, bark or brigantine.

London had turned over once or twice and was pulling the bodoloches over its head and grumbling about getting up, but the city was still sound asleep, when at length he paused for a minute's rest in front of the Mansion House and realized, with a pang of despair, that he was completely tickered out.

With a sigh he surrendered to the flesh's frailty. An early cab, cruising up from Cannon street station on the off chance of finding some one as idle as he in the city aside from the doves and sparrows, afforded the surprise of his life when Kirkwood hailed him.

"Jump in, sir," he told Kirkwood cheerfully as soon as he had assimilated the latter's demands. "I know precisely wotcher wants. Leave it all to me."

The admonition was all but superfluous. Kirkwood was unable for the time being to do more than resign his fate into another's guidance. Once in the cab he slipped insensibly into a nap and slept soundly on, as reckless of the cab's swift pace and continuous bouncing as of the sunlight glinting fall in his tired young face.

He may have slept twenty minutes. He awoke faint with drowsiness, tingling from head to foot from fatigue and in distress of a queer quality in the pit of his stomach, to find the hansom at rest and the driver on the step, shaking his fare with kindly determination. "Oh, sir, right," he assented sulkily and by sheer force of will made himself climb out to the sidewalk, where, having rubbed his eyes, stretched enormously and yawned disconcertedly in the face of the east end, he was once more refreshed into the bargain. Contentedly he counted a shilling into the caddy's palm, the fare named being one and six.

Its Little Chortle.

"This one," said the pollicen, depositing in its pouch the big fish it had caught, "will just about fill the bill."

Today and Yesterday.

Changes in What We Wear And What We Eat.

The steamship replaced the sailing vessel, the electric light succeeded the oil lamp, and we have no need, nor do we to "trade back." Our health is just as good and we can crowd that much more work and play into the day of twenty-four hours.

Foods have changed, too. Corn bread and wheat flour share courses with dairy yet substantial "prepared foods." People now realize the necessity of stomach care. They eat more fruit and green stuffs and cereals and the health is better for it.

The old fashioned breakfast of "beefsteak, potatoes and bread" or "bacon and eggs and muffins" are replaced by 12-C Corn Flakes or Egg-O-Soo Wheat Flakes and fruit, and our health is better for it. All the nourishment of the grain is retained in the crisp flakes, and it's no task for the stomach.

Children grow fat on it. Invalids gain strength on it and men can do a better day's work on it than to load his stomach with meats and heavy foods. Remember always it's the "Egg-O-Soo" brands that are "made right." Watch for the E-C Mark on the package.

results in each case? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verses 4-5.—Is it actually so, that the tongue is to the man what the rudder is to the ship, that is, does the tongue govern the influence of the man?

Is it necessary at all times to watch our tongues, compelling them to refrain from wrong words, and to use right words; just as the man at the wheel of a ship controls the rudder with vigilant watchfulness?

Is the tongue capable of setting a church or a neighborhood all ablaze with scandal, just as a match may set fire to a city?

Verses 6.—What are some of the many "iniquities" which the tongue can cause?

Can you recall and mention some of the moral poison emitted by an evil tongue?

Do persons with an evil tongue always draw their inspiration from "hell?"

Verses 7-8.—Man can do very wonderful things, in training animals and controlling the forces of nature, but cannot "tame" the human tongue, nor destroy its poison; to whom may we apply to have this effectually done?

Verses 9-12.—If a man uses his tongue both for bad and for good, for "blessing and cursing," does this not stamp him as a rank hypocrite? In it possible for a person with an evil tongue, to be at the same time well pleasing to God?

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott.

June 6th, 1909.
(Copyright, 1909, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.)
The Power of the Tongue. James 3:1-12.

Golden Text—Whoso keepeth his mouth and his tongue keepeth his soul from troubles. Prov. 21:23.

This chapter continues the thought of last week's lesson, based on the previous chapter.

Verses 1—What class of persons are most likely to want to rule, or be "masters," those engaged in good works or those who neglect them?

Will one who is in rapit love with his fellows want to rule them, or will he judge them harshly?

Unfaithful Christians always put up a high standard for others; what effect will that have upon the standard with which God will measure them? (See Matt. 7:1-5.)

Verses 2—How much of our trouble and how much of the trouble we make for others is caused by our tongues?

If a man does not do any harm by his words, is he very apt to do any otherwise?

If a man says hard and unkind things about his neighbors, and intentionally wounds the feelings of others by his words, is he necessarily a bad man?

Is the control of the tongue the key to the control of the entire man?

Verses 3—It takes an iron bit to control a horse, what is the "bit" which will effectually control the tongue?

In what respect is an ungoverned tongue like a runaway horse with a broken bit, and what are generally the results in each case? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verses 4-5.—Is it actually so, that the tongue is to the man what the rudder is to the ship, that is, does the tongue govern the influence of the man?

Is it necessary at all times to watch our tongues, compelling them to refrain from wrong words, and to use right words; just as the man at the wheel of a ship controls the rudder with vigilant watchfulness?

Is the tongue capable of setting a church or a neighborhood all ablaze with scandal, just as a match may set fire to a city?

Verses 6.—What are some of the many "iniquities" which the tongue can cause?

Can you recall and mention some of the moral poison emitted by an evil tongue?

Do persons with an evil tongue always draw their inspiration from "hell?"

Verses 7-8.—Man can do very wonderful things, in training animals and controlling the forces of nature, but cannot "tame" the human tongue, nor destroy its poison; to whom may we apply to have this effectually done?

Verses 9-12.—If a man uses his tongue both for bad and for good, for "blessing and cursing," does this not stamp him as a rank hypocrite? In it possible for a person with an evil tongue, to be at the same time well pleasing to God?

ANOTHER GRAVE FOR PENN.

England to America."

Washington, June 4.—"To bring the coffin containing the body of William Penn which now reposes in a practically abandoned cemetery in Buckinghamshire, England, to this country, and have it interred on the banks of the Delaware river, is the object of a movement just launched in congress."

Mr. Palmer of Pennsylvania is one of six members of the house behind the plan and he will confer with President Taft to enlist his support in the proposed removal. It is declared that considering Penn's distinguished career his grave is not appropriated marked.
